

Canada's Resource Champion

Neil Jacobsen

City of Saint John, New Brunswick

Neil Jacobsen is the Commissioner of Strategic Services for the City of Saint John. Neil has been a supporter of Greater Saint John and of responsible natural resource development in the region for many years.

As a former provincial Assistant Deputy Minister of Energy, he has worked tirelessly on behalf of the energy sector, and continues to do so today.

Highlights from Neil's nomination

In his current role with the City of Saint John, Neil was an integral part of forming of the Natural Gas Working Group, which promotes the responsible development of a natural gas industry in the Saint John region, and currently serves as its co-chair.

Neil is also part of the Energy East Pipeline Partners Forum, which works to promote the development of the pipeline and to promote its many benefits for the Saint John region and New Brunswick.

Neil was also instrumental in developing the program content and in bringing in world class speakers to participate in the first annual East Coast Energy Connection conference hosted in Saint John in June 2015.

Nominated by David Duplisea, Chief Executive Officer, Saint John Region Chamber of Commerce